ELECTION OF PRESIDENT OF THE R. & G. and R. & A. A. L. RAIL ROADS .- At a meeting of the Directors of these roads, held in this city at the office of the Companies on Wednesday afternoon, Mr. John Robinson, President of the Seaboard and Roanoke Rail Roads, was unanimously elected President of the above roads. We will present a sketch of the life and services of this gentleman, who has been so long and successfully connected with rail road interests, in our next issue.

THANKSGIVING DAY. - To-day is to be observed as a national holiday, a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and, in accordance with the expressed wish of Mayor Manly, we believe it will be pretty generally observed in this community. We learn that the most of our business houses will be closed to-day, and those not closing this morning will be closed at noon. The National Banks will be closed throughout the country during the day.

This is one day in the year when all pe sonal feelings and all conflicting interests should be laid aside, and our whole people unite in thanksgiving for the present and carnest prayer for the future.

SLIGHTUALLY MIXED .- A small cart, attached to a one-eyed, flap-cared mule, day before to-morrow became frightened at something on Wilmington street and bastily put a good distance between itself and the aforesaid mule, breaking to pieces slightly the hindmost wheels of the said mule in the sudden somersault given it in one of the gutters along the route by the infuriated cart. Several children in the street at the time might have been seriously damaged by the mad antics of the infuriated vehicle, but for the forethought of the quiet mule which was attached thereto, which by a noise peculiarly its own gave notice of the rapid approach of the four-wheeled animal. The eart finally got "on its ears" in the top of one of the trees in the Baptist Grove, and the detached mule was picked up from beneath the armory house, while the driver of this unruly couple walked forth unconcerned from Rogers' saloon, wiping his moustache with a bandanna, and looked serenely upon the wreck so lately breathing with poslwaited to see no more, but silently and solemply walked away, thinking of man's inhumanity to man, &c.

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME AND IN THE RIGHT PLACE. Yesterday just as our sanctum had been thoroughly cleansed, refitted, papered, and put in somewhat decent shape, and we were looking complacently upon the result, Dr. Ellis, Steward of the Deaf and Dumb and Blind Asylum of this city walked into our office with two new brooms manufactured at the Asylum by the inmates, and desired that we keep the office in the same cleanly condition he then found it. We promised te do so-if we could.

These brooms are not surpassed in quality and in appearance by any that are made elsewhere, either North or South, and reflect credit on the management of the Institution.

TUCKER HALL .- The Holman English Opera Troupe made their first appearance in Raleigh last night. and achieved a genuine success. Offenbach's celebrated Opera-Bouffe, "La Grand Duchess," was rendered in good style, and seldom have our citizens been regaled with so rich a musical treat. Solos, duets, trios, quartettes, choruses all were given in as perfect a manner as we can ever hope to witness in our city. As to Miss Sallie Holman, the charming little Prima Donna of this troupe, she is the very incarnation of song, and music pours as naturally from her lips as honey from the famed bees of Hybla. From her first entrance she carried her audience captive, a veritable Grand Duchess. The support was all that could be desired. Mr. Brandisi is a superb transact. Receipts light. The tenor, and gave the music allotted to him with a purity of tone rarely trade of the city generally on dull. equalled. In the third act he introduced La Marsellaise, and sang it in a manner never before heard in this section. During the French revolution of '48, the great actress, Rachel, chanting this soul stirring air, excited the volatile Parisians into a delirium verging on insanity. We can fancy that Brandisi, with his inimitable voice and style, could have wrought the same effect. The pom pous General Baum, with his "piff, paff, poof," tound an admirable representative in Mr. Ellis Ryse. Julia Holman, George Barton, and the rest of this excellent Troupe, deserve praise for their valuable assistance.

To-night, the last of the Holman Troupe in this city, will be presented Lecog's most brilliant opera "Girofle-Giroffa," with Sallie Holman as the Twin Sisters. This opera has been the greatest success of the past season in all the European capitals. The Philadelphia Enquirer, which should be recognized as good authority, has the following to say of it:

Wood's Museum was crowded to overflowing last evening to witness, for the first time in our city, Lecog's brilliant opera Giroffa. Without the slightest hesitation we pronounce it the Lest work of the above great writer; it being full of pith and pretty music from beginning to end. Miss Sallie Holman as Girofle Girofla never appeared to better advantage; her acting was superb and her singimmense assemblage and draw forth from them round after round of applause. The New York Herald just-ly terms her "The Queen of English Opera." Miss Julia Holman as Paquita shared the honors of the evening with her sister. Mr. J. Brandis and Mr. Vernon Sydney the tenors were in capital voice and were all one of the most comical pieces of ac-ting we ever saw—his rich bass voice being greatly admired. Mr. G. H. Barton as Bolero could not have been better. In fact the whole com pany could not be seen to better ad vantage. The choruses were precise and showed great harmony. The wardrobe was to say the least, mag-nificent. The whole performance was a decided success and the Hol-mans may compliment themselves as having made the hit of the season.

The foundations of its popularity are laid so deep in the public confidence, its excellence has been so frequently and conclusively demonstrated under the most trying circumstances, and it has been so long known to the public as a standard artic e, that neither the slurs occasionally east upon progrietary medicines, nor the attempts of cer ain inalcoholic sostrum venders to create a prejusice against a preparation with a spirituous besis can affect it. FARMING INTERESTS.

Renovating Worn-out Lands. The following from the Maryland Farmer will be of interest in North Carolina, where there is so much land thrown out of cultivation, but which can be reclaimed: The up-lands want clover and manuring, fertilizers or green-manuring such as plowing under rye, then peas, either one, or all—would be better. By such a process these originally very fertile soils can be recurrently in the soils can be recurred. perated in a few years at little cost, and more sure y done, than by a heavy cost of $50 to $80 per ton for guano and other fertilizers. True it is that a dressing of 25 bushels of lime per acre would be of great lasting benefit to most of the soils, but the lands of this section are filled with mari and can in a majority of with mari and can in a majority of with mari and can in a majority of cases dispense with lime—clover, is the grand, never failing specific. While indulging in our speculations as to the renovation of wern out lands, in the cheapest manner, we happened to have handed to us the last monthly report of the Agricultural Department of the United States, and it so completely supports our views with arguments and facts that we extract a paragraph which that we extract a paragraph which explains what we desire to say and so forcibly, we had rather call attention of our readers to its persual than write out our own views and our experience of years gone by. The re-port of the statistician, Mr. Dodge, "In one case in Butler County, Pennsylvania, a section of thin, gravelly land, on which it was thought no one could secure a decent living, came into the possession of German immigrants at nominal rates. They cleared off the brush, plowed, cultivated, turned under the grass crops; saved every fertilizing material available; never duplicated material available; never duplicated a crop in five or six years' rotation, and that tract is now a garden, and from worthleseness has advanced to the value of $100 per acre, and is yearly becoming more productive. These owners, in some cases, have raised and educated families, have comfortably, ride in carriages, and have money at interest. In other instances in which the aid of cloyer has been invoked, swine-feeding in has been invoked, swine-feeding in the clover fields has been made a valvable means of soil-improvement. In the South, a region which many northern writers on agricultural assume most erroneously to be unsuited to grass culture, and which southern farmers have strangely neglected as a meat-producing section for obvious reasons, a new era is dawning, and clover and orchard-grass are in many places found to be sources of immediate and heavy profits, and of greatly increased fertility. In light lands of more torrid temperature the cow-pea performs quickly and inex-pensively the work of smelioration assigned to red clover in argillaceous soils. It is a plant literally worth millions to the South; possibly as good an ammonia gatherer as clover; perhaps equally as good for fattening swine, and grown with greater facil-

For the Daily News. The North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference. FRANKLINTON, N. C., Nov. 24, '75.

Editors News: I give you a short account of the annual session of the North Carolina and Virginia Christian Conference which has just closed.

This body met at Pope's Chapel, near this place, on the 19th inst., and was organized by the election of Rev. W. S. Long, of Graham, N. C., as President; Rev. D. A. Long, of Graham, N. C., as Secretary; Rev. Peter T. Klapp, of Pittsboro, N. C., as Assistant Secretary. Thirty-eight Ministers were present, and about the same number of Loymen. Rev. W. B. Wellons, D. D., and Rev. E. W. Beale, of the Eastern Virginia W. Beale, of the Eastern Virginia Christian Conference, Rev. H. H. Gibbons, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Rev. J. H. Gil-breath, of the Methodist Protestant Church, were present as fraternal messengers from their respective Conferences.

These brethren came bearing salu-tations of love and fraternal greeting, which were cordially received and most heartily reciprocated. The Conference considered and adopted many important measures relating to the different departments of christian labor, among which I may mention in particular the subjects of Education, Missions, Sunday Schools and Temperance.

The work before the body was concluded to-day, having held, as all agree, a most pleasant and harmonious ses-ion.

The hospitality of the community was generous and ample, and all the members leave with hearts full of gratitude for the kindness extended by the people around Pope's Chapel and Franklinton.

'The next session of the Conference will be held at Salem Chapel, For-sythe county, N. C.

ANOTHER COTTON PACTORY.

Mr. Borden, of Goldsboro, has it in contemplation to erect a cotton They no longer dare venture upon factory near that place, if sufficient water power can be obtained. We think the success of the factory at Wilmington, run by steam, demonstrates the fact that steam is as cheap and efficient as water, and while there is a super abundance of unemployed water power in the State, its use should not be considered indispensable to profitable work. There are many points where cotton factories could be advantageously situated in reference to purchase of raw material, and facilities for the shipment of goods where good water is gro. But party exigences were unattainable, as for instance in Goldsboro or Raleigh. Yet other advantages are so great, that steam could be economically applied and profitably employed. With every factory South paying not less than 20 per cent., frequently more, it is rather astonishing that Southern enterprise is so backward in taking hold of the question instead of making investments in loans or stocks which are not so profitable, and it may be said by many, not nearly so safe.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

We have received Prof. Kerr's rert of the Geological Survey of North Carolina, made to the Legislature and just published by the State Printer. We shall make a more deliberate examination of the work before passing an opinion upon its merits. We see enough however to authorize the assertion, that it will prove of great value as giving to the world a most minute and accurate sketch of the wonderful agricultural and mineral resources of the State. We are struck with one fict. It has been asserted that North Carolina, while containing a greater variety of metals and minerals than almost any other State, had none in sufficient quantities to sustain the large employment of capital. The work of Prof. Kerr shows, that in iron at least, the Cranberry mine, the Chapel Hill mine, the Guilford belt, and some others are practicably inexbaustible, and the production of exceptionally fine character. And to the latter point, the attention of Foreign and Northern manufacturers is being drawn.

THE Richmond Dispatch, in the course of certain comments upon the opposition to Tom Scott's Southern Pacific Rail Road scheme, draws inferences from that opposition which the position of the opposition does not warrant. It is not hostility to the introduction or use of northern capital that they oppose. On the contrary they welcome every cent of it. There is room and use for it all. We would not object to see the whole current of it set in upon the South with an overwhelming tide. There is use for it every where, and there is profit in it too. We care not if the main profits go to northern capitalists. The incidental advantages of its use among us will be sufficiently remunerative. If that capital gives us rail roads, opens up our mines, dots the country with factories, it is of small consequence if northern men are enriched by them. We will be enriched likewise in the increased value of lands, in the creation of interior, certain markets for agricultural products, and in increased population. We welcome northern men and northern capital.

But the capital that Scott asks for is government funds equally the property of the South and the North; of the South, which he proposes to make contribute to its own ruin and to build up his own northern inter the advantage of its use.

EFFECTS OF POLITICAL QUIET. The adoption of the new Alabama Constitution has had a magical effect. At once, and as beneficently as the rays of the sun breaking out of black clouds which have long overhung the landscape, and warming up with a bright glow the face of long overshadowed nature, does the removal of the incubns of a Constitution of alien birth and the substitution of one adapted to the wants an I situation of the people, act upon tle material interests of Alabama. Real estate has at once sprung elastic from its depression. It has risen from fifty to one hundred per cent. Lands which would not sell for the taxes charged upon them now again approach their former standard of value. Industries of all kind are s imulated. Hope beams upon every face, and the whole State feels the impulse of a new system which opens the way to universal prosper-

So in Louisiana. For though there has been no change in their Constitution, the State is no longer harassed by the interference of the general government. The State officials have learned to respect the strength of popular indignation. exactions and arbitrary proceedings, in which a year ago they were sure to be sustained by the armed force of the United States. Now all is peace and comparative prosperity. If common sense, common justice, common humanity had ruled the counsels of the government at the close of the war, the South would long since have been the important element to the prosperity of the country as it was before the war, and that with full reference to the security of all the rights of the nestronger than good policy. An instance is given of the changed phase of business in Louisiana. A sugar planter with an outlay of $175,000, which covered all expenses, will make 5,000 hogsheads of sugar, worth $110 a bogshead, and 7,500 barrels of molasses, worth $24 a barrel. And now Louis ang. if let alone, may be said to have entered upon a new existence.

JUSTICE CLAIMING ITS RIGHTS.

The whiskey trials in St. Louis are attracting attention not only from the vastness of the interests out to the criminals. All the parties have stood high in executive favor. They have been encouraged, favored and protected. They have operated with such perfect immuni ty from the consequences of crime, that they parted with all modesty and all fear. They pursued their nefarious system until they robbed the Treasury of many millions, dividing the plander among them selves and with those whose duty it was to see the laws faithfully executed.

It is one of the best signs of the times that justice has overtaken crime, and in overtaking it, has enforced the proper penalties Grand Juries have made presentments | as the child saw him she said. "O without fear, favor or affection. Petit Juries have weighed the evidence submitted to them, and Judges pronounced sentence unawed by official frowns, and upinfluenced by the meretricious respectability of the parties arraigned before them. Such fearless administration of the laws will roll back the tide of corruption which has overwhelmed the land from one end to bonesty in the performance of official duties. But while justice has overtaken a portion of the criminals, high in position indeed, it has not yet reached the centre of inspiration of this conspiracy of crime. It is impossible, that for years, a system should bave been carried out, embracing so many parties, and involving such delicacy of management, to escape detection without connivance, protection or warning, from the highest seats of power. Carl Schuz's St. Louis German paper throws much light upon the subject and points boldly and clearly to the fountain the other, and reinstate the reign of head of crime. Says that paper : "The Washington telegrams, written in cypher, which are before them, warning the distillers of this city of their impending danger, are based upon and derived from knowledge which at that time but two single persons possessed. Only Bristow and Grant knew of the Only steps that were to be taken, and as we know that those signals of warning were not given by Bristow, they could only have come from Grant, or one in his confidence. The whole country, therefore, points already to the notorious Babcock, Grant's body villain, folse measurer and swindler in general, as well as the head of all corrupt scoundrels and newspapers in 1872 in particular, from whom to use a legal phrase, such a misdeed is to be expected." This is an explict charge, and de-ests. The South will make no outery monstration of the complicity of against the subsidy-only let it have members of the President's family, if not himself in the guilt. And with the rapid accumulation of the President's private fortunes, the gravest suspicions may be indulged. Yet, it s a fact that the confidence of his party in Grant is not shaken, and with the politicians of the party, his chances for re-nomination to a third term were never stronger. Are the people ready to see their fortunes and their liberties swamped in this gulf of corruption?

> Some Interesting Details of the Late Railroad Disaster in South Care-

> We co, y from the Augusta Chronicle of Friday some additional interesting details of the late terrible aceident on the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Road :

The passenger train had searcely haited in the siding when the "extra" came thundering down upon it, its headlight gleaming like an evil eye. Mrs. Heigesheimer's servant, a colored woman named Mary Murry, called out, "My God mistress, there's took place, and the locomotive or the extra train literally telescoped into the ladies' coach. Mrs. Heigesheimer had but a few minutes previously ta-ken her child, a sweet infant of three months of age, from its nurse's arms and went back to the rear of the car with it. She had the child in her lap when she beard her servant cry out that the engine was upon them. In a moment she felt herself lifted violent ly upwards, her babe was thrown from her lap and she was pushed for ward some distance. When the pushing ceased, and she was able to look around her, she found that she was ON THE COWCATCHER, while the fire in the locomotive's furnace was so close and fierce, that she was being scorched with its inflashed into ber mind that perhaps she would be burned to death, and she prayed to God to take her to Himself at once rather than let he suffer such a horrible fate. But the instinct of self-preservation was strong within her. Finding she could move, and seeing a window close at hand, she essayed to open it. But it would not move. She then dashed out the pane with her hand, cutting the latter so that it bled freely. The scalding steam from the boiler was now filling the car, and the breath of fresh air which she secured by breaking the window was like a special lessing from Heaven itself. Putting her head out of the window, she screamed for help, and in a few moments she was taken out, terribly ruised and shacked, but fortunately, not seriously injured. Her baby was found under one of the benches, close o the locomotive. Its clothing was horoughly saturated with the vapor. It was enveloped in flannel and it was this probably that prevented it from being scalded to death. A leather satchel which was found lying close to it, a little nearer the engine, was burnt to a crisp. It was at irst thought the little creature would lose its right eye, so bruised and blackened did it appear, but afterwards it was discovered that the injury was not of so serious a nature. The poor infant was bruised all over its body, but it is not thought that involved, but from the inexorable any of the injuries will prove seriourigidity with which justice is meted Mrs. Heigesheimer was badly bruised about the body and received a severe Its eyes were all right yesterday cut on her back. In a few moments he found the girl. As soo man, don't hurt me. Turpentine as a Disinfectant. We clip the following matter of information, peculiarly applicable to North Carolina, from the Medical

The value of turpentine as a disin-fectant is not sufficiently known or understood. Wilmington is a town situated on the Cape Fear River, in North Carolina, a river subject to high tidal floods, and, as the town is in the vicinity of large swampy rice-fields, it would appear to be peculiarly liable by nature to attacks of malarial fever. In the town, before the late war, there were six large turpen, tine distilleries, and the health of the town was remarkably good, which was accounted for by the supposed effects of the rosiniferous odors of the distilleries. Some time after the distilleries had stopped work, owing to the war, yellow fever broke out and spread rapidly. Hoping to check it by this means, large quantities of rosin were burned in the streets, but without beneficial effects. In 1870 the distilleries were once more worked, and the health of the town regained its former condition. Another instance is given in which turpentine was used with good results .-During the American war the soldiers of the Confederate States suffered se verely from fever, and the Surgeon-General, not being able to procure quinine, tried the effect of applying bands of cloth steeped in turpentine and worn around the body. This was found to be very efficient in sub duing the paroxyisms of ague, and it is evident that turpentine has some great power, both as a disinfectant and a soother of malarious fevers.

NOON DISPATCHES.

The Centennial-Soldiers of the Late War to be Present.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—A move ment is afloat to assemble a large number of soldiers of the late war in this city sometime during the Cen-tennial. It is proposed to have both the Northern and Southern armies represented by their leading Generais and thousands of the rank and file from every State. The purpose is to show the world by a grand impressive demonstration that men who were in arms against each other a few years ago are now united in the cel-ebration of the one hundredth birthday of their country and inspired by the spirit of patriotism and feeling a common nationality.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

Injuries Received-Death of Wm. B. Astor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Pauline Lucea was thrown from a carriage in Switzerland and received injuries which will detain her six weeks.

Wm. B. Astor is dead, aged 84. He has been in ill health for a long time, and the event was not unexpected. During the course of his long life, the value of the property bequeathed to him by his father has been constantly increasing, and it is almost impossible at the present time to estimate its amount. It consists of real estate in all parts of the city, and is worth many millions of dollars. He will be buried on Saturday.

Another Indian Altercation. WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.-The In dian agent, Irvine, telegraphs that in a recent altercation at Cameron agency, N. M., he was wounded in the hand by an Indian who was attempting to escape. He was shot by the guard, and hostilities might be looked for at any moment. His wound prevents him from taking an active part by the difficulty He recommends that the affairs be in charge of the military. The com-missioner telegraphs back to put the military in full control, and give them a hearty co-operation in bringing the Indians to subjection.

Testimony of one of the Crew of the Ship Orpheus.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—One of the crew of the ship Orpheus made a sworn statement before a Notary Public at Port Townsend, in which he charges the Captain of the Orphs eus as having been the cause of the disaster. He says on raising a light of the Pacific he was ordered by the second mate to head for them. In a few minutes, thereafter, the Captain came on deck and ordered him to again put the ship on her course. About three minutes afterwards he was ordered by the Captain to let her luff, which he did. After this, the Captain signified his intention to peak to the steamer, for which the lights of the steamer were kept dead ahead until the two vessels came in collision, then the steamer followed the ship, and the people on board of the steamer shouted and called upon the Captain of the Orpheus to stop and rescue them, but he did not heed their cries and kept on his course, and the steamer was soon lost to view.

The St. Louis Railroad Convention. St. Louis, Nov. 24.-In the Convention a lengthy letter from Col. Scott was read, setting forth the advantage to the country at large and to the government of the Texas and Pacific Road. The Committee on resolutions then presented a long series of resolutions, which were Stonewall Jackson.

We copy the following paragraph from a fine editorial in the New York World, which says:

But it was as a Virginian, first last and always, that Stonewall Jack-son had earned his peculiar fame. He was not a Secessionist, he was not even a Southern man in the ordinary sense of these terms He was simply a born and devout believer in the vital necessity to the liberties of his people, of preserving intact those principles of State sovereignty of which Virginia, by her ancient rank among American commonwealths and by the eminent share which she had taken, first in making the American Union possible, and then in establishing it, may well be pardoned for regarding himself as held and bound to be the fearless and uncompromising champion and de-fender. His political faith was the ground work of his fame as a Captain. He belongs, like Gustavus Adolphus, and Hampden and Falkland, to the roll of honor, bright though brief, on which are inscribed the names of men who have taken the sword and died by the sword, not for glory nor for conquest, but for what they in their hearts believed to be their highest duty as men. Surely the time has come-and as surely t is a great and blessed thing for the American people that the time should have come within ten short years only from the close of our deadly internecine conflict-when the voice of Virginia, rendering homage to this hero of duty, not because he died for Virginia, simply, but because he died for what he believed to be his duty to Virginia, can find its way to the hearts of all Americans, and touch the sympathetic chord of a pure and patriotic pride in them all.

It is said that Messrs. Moody and Sankey have refused to receive $28,-000 in gold, derived from the sale of their hymn and music books in England. In this money loving age such self-denial is almost equal to a miracle. It is said that the London committee having charge of the fund have come to the conclusion to send it as a contribution towards the building of a church for Mr. Moody, which is now in progress of erection in Chicago.
